

Food Safety Policy

The purpose of this document is to clarify what the company's food safety policy is, in accordance with ISO22000 5.2.

The CEO is responsible for the policy.

Emballator Mellerud AB's (EMAB) food safety policy involves developing, producing, marketing and distributing products at a quality level that meets laws as well as customer and consumer needs and expectations.

EMAB's food safety work shall involve all employees. This is necessary to increase our competitiveness, efficiency and profitability.

Clearly stated food safety goals are therefore set to achieve continuous improvement.

EMAB's products must stand for both innovation and tradition that together with food safety provide and create a whole.

Achieving our goals requires firm operational control and follow-up of results. For EMAB, quality and food safety are not only measurable, but equally a matter of commitment, lifestyle and corporate culture.

The main focus of our food safety work is to find uncomplicated solutions.

Corporate management has overall responsibility for the safety, legality and quality of the products. The management is also responsible for ensuring that the food safety policy is understood and implemented in the company and communicated externally via our website; www.emballator.com
EMAB has open communication channels so that all employees, customers and other stakeholders can report deviations and improvements related to food safety.
